

This image shows a blank sheet of lined paper, oriented vertically. The page features a vertical margin line on the left side and a series of horizontal ruling lines that create a grid for writing. There are 21 horizontal lines in total, including the top and bottom lines of the main body, which define 20 equal-width rows. The margins are consistent on both the left and right sides. Two short horizontal lines are present on the left side: one at approximately one-third of the way down the page and another at approximately two-thirds of the way down, both extending from the left edge to the margin line.

